

Biographical Statement

Megan Selck

Director of Development

Boy Scouts of America

Megan Selck has served as Director of Development for the Greater St. Louis Area Council, Boy Scouts of America since January of 2017. Megan is a graduate of Elmhurst College, where she received a BA in Communications and French Studies.

After graduation, Megan attended Gonzaga University where she received a MA in Organizational Development & Leadership. Megan has worked in the non-profit sector for organizations such as the American Cancer Society, CureSearch for Children's Cancer, and Loaves & Fishes Community Services where she served as CEO.

Megan and her husband, Andrew, have two children and live in Waterloo, IL. Megan is active at her church, serves as chair of Child's World Preschool board, and on the development committee at the Alliance Francaise de St. Louis. Her passion is cooking, and she loves to travel with her family.